

MAIN STRATEGIC CHALLENGE FOR EUROPEAN POLITICS

The demographic change and its impact on social, economic, healthcare and educational matters have become one of the main strategic challenges for European politics.

The Demographic Change Regions Network (DCRN), founded in 2006, is an open informal network that joins together Brussels based regional offices interested in challenges of demographic change – ageing, declining and migration of population.

Nowadays the network is a group of European regions that see that the demographic trends in Europe are an important factor to consider and discuss in all governmental levels from local to European.

Demographic changes are and continue to be a great challenge for the economic and social cohesion of Europe, therefore awareness-raising on the topic is essential.

ACTIVITIES

Activities of the network consist of regular meetings and brainstorming sessions, seminars and workshops, meetings with relevant officials and also disseminating best practices through responses to the EC consultations and events organised by the network's members. The main aims of the network are:

- raising the awareness of European institutions on the specific needs of regions affected by demographic change,
- cooperating with EU institutions - in particular the European Parliament, the European Commission and the Committee of Regions,
- sharing information and experiences on demographic change issues,
- improving cooperation on demographic issues among Brussels based regional offices,
- developing common projects,
- promoting cooperation between the regions and stakeholders such as NGOs and universities.

PROJECT DEVELOPMENT

In recent years the network has successfully launched several EU-funded projects. Some examples are:
